ONE PRISONER FALLS.

One of the prisoners, a Negro and a cow man, who were captured at the battle of Bull Run, was rescued by the Union forces.

The battle took place on July 21st, and the prisoners were captured by the Confederates.

One of the prisoners was a Negro, named James Brown, who was captured by the Confederates.

James Brown was a slave, and was captured by the Confederates.

The Confederates were victorious, and James Brown was taken prisoner.

He was kept in a stockade, and was treated in a cruel manner.

On the night of July 21st, a Union officer, named John Smith, rescued James Brown and another prisoner, a cow man, named John Doe.

They were taken to a Union fort, where they were treated kindly.

James Brown was later exchanged for a Confederate prisoner, and was released.

The battle of Bull Run was a significant event in the history of the United States.

The Union forces were victorious, and the Confederate forces were defeated.

The battle took place near Manassas, Virginia, and was fought on July 21st.

The battle was fought between the Union forces, led by General George McClellan, and the Confederate forces, led by General P. G. T. Beauregard.

The Union forces were victorious, and the Confederate forces were defeated.

The battle was fought near Manassas, Virginia, on July 21st.
