We laid still all day and rested there was no much fighting in our front but some on right seems can make us. We are now in sight of the outskirts of the city. We threw up breastworks and commenced acting.

20.
We laid still all day and night.

21.
We laid still all day and at night.

22.
We began our picket had a good bit of sharpshooting to do the Rebs kept us low and we did them. The same heavy fighting on extreme left to right. The Rebs avoid an attack on our left and then on their right. Some following all along. The line at night was reg ordered and Sed. I was promoted Serg. to rank from 23.

We laid still all day.

24.
Very heavy cannonade in the night and left a. M. the rest of the day was quiet except sharp-shooters and artillery firing. One of Co. B. was wounded at the time on pickett.
25. Oct. 3rd 7 a.m. The shooting continued all night and was very heavy. The rebels shelled us with their heavy guns and mortars. We were under fire for most of the night.

26. Heavy picket firing all day and night. The Rebels threw a few shells over our head, but no harm done. Our fellows threw an occasional shell all day and from a heavy mortar all night. Our boys were busy building, abatis, and strengthening our works. We advanced our picket line.

27. We landed still; the Rebels shelled us continuously, and our batteries were in action. We had the wounded sent forward. We kept up heavy skirmish for all night.

28. Very quiet in front of us. Only a little shelling and sharpshooting going on. I was promoted to Sergt.

29. The day was warm and quiet, and our supplies broke by a cannon shot on the sharpshooter. I made out the monthly report.

30. The night was quiet until 3 A.M., when there was a quite a fight in our right. Did not learn results. Wm. P. Harlow was killed by sharpshooter near the battery. Capt. Lowe was busy making out the muster rolls for the month of May & June.
I was busy making out the muster rolls. No time for sharpshooting and head cantonning going on. The Rebs showed an attack but it was near night and did not amount to much.

The day was very quiet. Only a little artiller Yankee and sharpshooting and the pickets, artillery drill and amusing other stuff I don't remember. I wrote a letter to Edna Reed.

I am still busy making out muster rolls and very hard camarading on the strictest necessary. We had our cooking parties at night.

The day was quiet and usual. Only the Rebs got a mater in position and shelled our pickets. I did not hear any cannonading. I wrote a letter to my sister and also made our quarterly return of the killed and wounded in the Co.

I was about the same as yesterday only a little more Artillery firing. We churned up a foot of planks.
We opened on the Rebel works our 132 lbs. and threw a few shells at the city. Everything else was the same. We anchored at anchor and relieved the 24th Mass. Volunteer Cavalry.

The Rebs were throwing shells all day at intervals our boy were returning counter shells at them. With good success streaming them right onto the Pitts.

The day was quiet—as usual only the Rebs drew a little more shell.

The Rebs were a little more active than usual with their artillery but it was not very well aimed, and the shells did not do any damage.

The day was quiet all day as usual except firing artillery. The Rebs kept up their own firing and we fired a few shells and then a canister shot. Both did not do any damage.
13. The day was as usual except that a little more mortar and smoke. The Rebels are still strong at their works and so also were D. Perry was killed at 6 P.M. in pickets.

14. We fought planted some more thistles on our side, heavy mortar shelling on both sides. A Rebel killed occasionally shell and shot are from the fort.

15. Very heavy cannonading on the right at 9 A.M. commenced. Tonnage smoke shells on the right. If left another very heavy mortar and artillery shelling opened at 6 P.M. our Boys return a rebel tolass in.

16. Nothing occurred until 3 P.M. was heavy shelling of mortar and smoke from the fort.

17. Nothing occurred more than usual until night when we expected an attack and strengthened our line more. Rebs by the amm off the night but they did not come in.

18. The day was cool and it rained a little as we fought a little. Leonard Granger was among my shoulder as he ad by Rebel sharpshooter.
July 19. Rained a little in the morn & 6 A.M. when it rained hard, and did not stop until 4 P.M. Sprinkled some in the afternoons & turned our artillerymen set fire to a house purposely set for Charlestown.

July 20. Considerable artillery firing shot in our side, and Marble's house near by another house. It's day, and blew up a magazine in one of the rebel lines.

July 22. Can made the occasional diving the 1st and at night we were in nearly all night expecting an attack from the river.

July 23. Everything as usual and not much fighting, but a good deal of preparation. Our co line busy building quarters.

25.
